

CHENEY PROMOTED TO GOOD POSITION

Engineer and Superintendent of Local Utility to Assume Important Place with Big Concern

PLAN $30,000 IMPROVEMENTS

Contracts Being Let by the Electric Company Today for Big Work at the Edison Light Plant

Seymour W. Cheney, since April 1, engineer and superintendent of the La Crosse Gas and Electric company, today received official notification of his selection as assistant engineer for the American Public Utilities company of Grand Rapids, Mich.

The concern is one of the biggest public service corporations in the country and controls a chain of utilities throughout the northwest. The La Crosse concern is one of those owned by the American company.

Mr. Cheney will be succeeded according to Thurston Owen, vice president and general manager of the La Crosse company, by O. W. Higgins, who has been affiliated with the Consolidated Coal company, Chicago. Mr.
Higgins will assume his new duties immediately.

Is Expert Engineer

Mr. Cheney, who for over three years was connected with the railroad commission of Wisconsin, is one of the best known engineers in the northwest and his rise in his chosen field has been rapid. In 1905 he entered the business as a cadet engineer with the Denver Gas and Electric light company. In 1906 he became superintendent of distribution with the Lincoln, Neb., Gas and Electric company and later held the same position with a utility in Montgomery, Ala. He came to Wisconsin from Alabama.

"While Mr. Cheney's stay in La Crosse has been brief," said Mr. Owen today, "he has already built up an enviable clientele of friends here.
While we hate to lose him we are unit in extending all best wishes for the success we know he will meet with in the larger field."

Big Improvements Here

Bids are being received today for the gas and electric company for the installation of three new boilers at the Edison plant on South Second street. The cost of installation is estimated at approximately $30,000.
The boilers will be 1,200 h. p. each.
Mr. Owen today admitted that the local company plans improvements at the heating plant that will involve an expenditure of several thousand dollars. Most of it will be spent for new equipment, he says.

LOCAL COUPLE TO WED IN MUSKEGON

Miss Hazel Argall, daughter of John Argall, 415 Rose street, and Vlad Pfeiffer, formerly a member of the firm of Schmolli and Pfeiffer, proprietors of the Billiken confectionery and billiard hall on Mill street, will be married Monday afternoon in Muskegon, Mich., according to word received in La Crosse today. Miss Argall and Mr. Pfeiffer left La Crosse last Monday for Muskegon, where both of them have relatives.
The marriage license was issued today. The news of their approaching wedding was not expected by their friends, although their engagement has been announced for some time.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

CABARET GIRL MORE MODEST THAN SOCIETY

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Cabaret performers who appear in tight are more modest in wearing apparel than some of the women who visit cafes to watch their performances, according to Assistant Corporation Counsel Michaels, who made an official report to Mayor Harrison today on conditions in Chicago cafes.
"On my visit to Rector's," reads the official report, "I found business men and professional men with their wives and daughters who evidently took great delight in the graceful dancing of a young woman who appeared on the stage in the usual costume of the premier danseuse. I saw nothing indecent in her act or in her dress. I must say that some of the society ladies present were in greater danger than she was of catching cold in the chest."

PLAN TO ABOLISH FREE LUNCH HERE

Saloonmen Circulating Petitions and Will Ask the Council to Legislate It Out of Business

HIGH COST OF LIVING CAUSE

Henry Reget Says Big Increase in Prices Over Ten Years Ago Is Responsible for Action

The "high cost of living" is the reason given for a movement started among La Crosse saloonkeepers to abolish the free lunch.

Petitions are being circulated among the retail liquor men of the city to unite in abolishing the lunch and at the next meeting of the common council these petitions will be presented to that body in an effort to secure the passage of an ordinance making the giving away of lunch a violation of law.

The movement, it is said, started with local men who have been in the business for years and who maintain that the immense increase in the price of food stuffs is responsible.

"When I started in business here ten years ago," said Henry Reget, proprietor of the Giraldo, "I paid eight cents a pound for round beef.
Today I am paying twenty cents. The prices of other commodities have increased correspondingly. The result is that the free lunch is being run at a loss to every saloon man and the increased sale of stock does not warrant this loss."

There is a diversity of opinion among saloon men as to the advisability of the move and it is possible that all may not agree to go into the movement. Mr. Reget was confident today, however, that the majority of the members of the Retail Liquor Dealers' association would enter the agreement.

"As soon as the petitions are complete they will be presented to the common council," said Mr. Reget.

LA FOLLETTE FOR CURRENCY REFORM

Senator in Editorial Urges Emergency Currency, Backed by Actual Commercial Paper

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 1.—(Special.)—That the national banking law should be thoroughly revised and that an emergency currency circulation should be backed by proper reserves, issued only against commercial paper that represent actual and legitimate business transactions is the contention of Senator La Follette in an editorial today under the title "Draw Wall Street Fingers."

"The whole course of banking and currency legislation has steadily favored the great banking institutions, especially those having community of interest with the industrial and transportation companies of the country," says Senator La Follette. "Our national banking law is a patchwork of legislation. It should be thoroughly revised, and all authorities agree that a comprehensive plan for an emergency currency is vitally important. When it is settled that government controlled banks are to be, in fact, controlled by the government, in the public interest, the details can be easily worked out."

DEMAND: BANK PROBE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Immediate investigation of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo's charges that New York banks are conspiring to depress United States two per cent bonds to antagonize the administration currency reform program, was proposed in a house resolution introduced by Representative Neely of Kansas.

ASKS MARTIAL LAW OR NON-UNION CAMP

Commander of Michigan Militia Says Families of Workers Must Be Protected

SAYS SITUATION IS PAST CONTROL

Soldiers Unable to Check Campaign of Terrorism by Foreign Strikers

CALUMET, Mich., Aug. 1.

Either an immediate declaration of martial law or the construction of huge camps, where non-union miners and their wives and children may be herded for protection by state troops, will be necessary in the upper Michigan copper country, if the militia is to serve its purpose in the protection of life and property, according to Brig. Gen. Abbey, commanding the state troops today. A campaign of terrorism and intimidation, directed by a few hundred uncontrollable foreigners against the wives of non-union workers, has brought about a situation which the troops are practically helpless to control, Gen. Abbey declared.

Heavy military guards were today thrown out over the Houghton county bridge, which spans Portage lake, connecting Houghton and Hancock, as a result of information received by the military command of a plot to destroy the bridge by dynamite.

Positive denial was made at union headquarters today of the report that huge quantities of dynamite had been secretly smuggled into the copper district by the miners' organization for the purpose of carrying on a systematic campaign of destruction against mine companies' property.

CORONER HAS BIG DAY

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 1.—At noon today the Milwaukee county coroner was off duty for the first time in forty-eight hours, after investigating an almost unprecedented number of violent deaths. Three persons have drowned, two were killed in railroad accidents and four were suicides.

DE SOTO GIRL DIES

After but a short illness at a local hospital Miss Dorsey Sutherland

Deceased is a resident of De Soto burial.

WILL LEGISLATURE END AS PLANNED?

The question of whether the legislature will adjourn next Thursday, as planned, is arousing interest among those who are following the movements of the two houses. Both houses have finished active legislative work and are marking time awaiting Governor McGovern's action on bills presented to him. The question is whether the executive can get through the bills laid before him by Thursday. Newspaper reports about the state do not agree, some asserting the governor will have finished before Thursday, and others claiming he will be unable to be through before Friday or Saturday.

HIDE ON PILOT SAFELY

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 1.—Scooping up bodily by the pilot of a Burlington freight engine four persons in an automobile rode for a distance of 40 feet today in that precarious position without being killed. Will Cassir, his wife and two small children of this city, were in the automobile.
Cassir attempted to cross the trestle in advance of the engine.
In his excitement he lost control of the machine, stalling his motor.

PLANS BIG BARGE LINE

EDWARD WHITE OF CHICAGO WILL CARRY FREIGHT FROM NEW CITY TO NEW ORLEANS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 1.—A new barge line from Chicago to New Orleans will be unning in less than three months, according to Edward White of Chicago now in St. Louis to check up his plans with the Mississippi river commission.

The company plans a fleet of 150-ton barges under their own power from Chicago to La Salle, Ill., where the cargoes will be transferred to a steamer hauling larger barges.
White believes his company can handle freight at 75 per cent of the rail rate to the Gulf.

PROF. DONALDSON CALLED BY DEATH

Pioneer Educator Dies at His Home Here at 6:00
This Morning; Ill for Months

HAS TAUGHT HERE SINCE 1883

President of Board of Education Praises His Work and Says He Was One of Greatest Educators

Professor N.S. Donaldson, principal of the Lincoln school, died this morning at six o'clock after a painful illness of several months.

Professor Donaldson was born at Carlsruhe, Pa., May 19, 1844. He came west in 1867 and taught in Illinois and at Monroe, Wis. He came to La Crosse in 1883 as principal of the old Fifth Ward school. For the last sixteen years he has been principal of the Lincoln school, Ninth and Division streets.

Professor Donaldson was a most faithful and efficient principal and teacher. His whole soul was given to promoting the success and happiness of his pupils. No teacher was ever more beloved by his pupils.

FUNERAL TO BE SUNDAY

During the last two months of his illness his wife, Mrs. H. M. King, of Philadelphia, administered greatly to his comfort.

The funeral will be held at Christ Episcopal church Sunday, Aug. 3, at three o'clock in the afternoon. There will be no services at the home.
Friends may view the remains at the residence, 126 S. Thirtieth street, Saturday afternoon from three to five o'clock.

President William Luening of the board of education today called a meeting of the school board to make arrangements for attending the funeral in a body and passing resolutions upon the death of Mr. Donaldson.

Mr. Luening has requested that all teachers of the Third district school attend the funeral.

"Prof. Donaldson," said Mr.
Luening today, "was one of the most highly respected men in the educational field in not only La Crosse, but the northwest. His death takes from the city a man who has always been a big factor in behalf of education and his loss is one that will be felt."

CITIZENS ASKED TO GIVE VIEWS

Council to Sit as Committee of the Whole and Hear Ideas on Rose Street Viaduct Matter

Mayor Ori J. Sorensen this morning called a special meeting of the council for Wednesday night, August 6, at which time La Crosse citizens will be invited to give their views upon the Rose street viaduct controversy.

Immediately after convening the council will go into committee of the whole and an informal discussion of the north side controversy will be entered into. Every citizen who has an idea which he believes will prove a solution of the difficulty is invited to attend the meeting and express his convictions.

Mr. Sorensen announced this morning that his object in calling the meeting was to decide upon some plan to present to the railroad commission of Wisconsin when his representatives arrive here on August 12 to rehear the matter.

"We realize that there is a diversity of ideas on the subject," said the mayor this morning, "and it is to get these and secure the good suggestions that the meeting is called."

It will be held in the big council chamber on the second floor of the city hall.

SALZER RESIGNS COMMITTEE HEAD

Because he is committed to the river route as the best between La Crosse and Winona, Mr. John Salzer has informed John L. Utermoehl, secretary of the La Crosse board of trade, of his desire not to serve as chairman of the local committee on the Chicago, Black Hills and Yellowstone park road people.

The pathfinding car of the cross country route planners will leave Chicago August 12 and is expected in La Crosse at 5 p. m. August 13.

It is the present plan to go from La Crosse to Winona via Trempealeau.
Local automobilists are invited to meet the pathfinding car which will enter the city over the West Salem road and accompany it as far as they like in the tour.

WESTON WALK TO END

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 1.—Edward Pavson Weston, considered America's greatest walker, will complete the next to final lap of his walk from New York to Minneapolis between five and six o'clock past six o'clock

GIRL IN TRANSPARENT SKIRT FASCINATES ALL OF TEAM—GAME LOST SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 1.—One transparent skirt and a young woman over whom its filmy folds were draped wrecked the Westport ball team here and today the manager was explaining how it happened that the Nationals won the game yesterday after the Westports took the field in the ninth inning with a five run lead.

As the afternoon dragged along in South Norwalk the sun shone over third base. Manager McArdley thought he had his game won when suddenly the pitcher began to get wild. Before throwing the ball he took a last long look toward third base. Three batters drove long flies to the outfield but not a man moved to catch them.
The whole team was looking toward third base. Manager McArdley went over to first to see what was wrong.

He saw what the others saw and before he could bring about a rally the game was lost. McArdley found that a young woman with a transparent skirt was standing back of third base between the playing field and the sun. McArdley declared that if such a thing was threatened again he would erect an awning back of third base.

IMMIGRATION AND RURAL CREDIT

Possible that Philippine Independence Will Also Be Taken Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Trust regulations, immigration and rural credits, with possibly Philippine independence, are to be "head-liners" of the democratic legislative program at the next session of congress.

This was the information of party leaders today. It is based on the proviso that there is no hitch in passing tariff and currency bills at this session.

Strengthening of the Sherman antitrust law is to be the "star" feature of next winter's session, it was stated. Senate and house leaders are making preliminary arrangements.

Chairman Clayton of the house judiciary committee today declared that, upon the convening of congress next December, a broad investigation of trusts is planned. His committee already has authority and funds, he said, to begin the inquiry.

"We will not subtract anything from the Sherman law," said Clayton.
"We will enact new supplementary, helpful legislation."

agricultural department crop report cotton crop on July 25 as 79.6 per 81.8 on June 25, 76.5 per cent on July 25 last year and 80 the ten year average.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Immediately following the government report, the cotton market here advanced from 10 to 15 points with active covering of shorts. The report was below expectations.

GIVE TURKISH PARTY

STORIES OF DARING COSTUMES AT NARRAGANSETT PIER BALL OVERSHADOWED HUNT FOR STOLEN JEWELRY

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 1.—Stories of gay masquerades, some of the women clad in rare Turkish costumes, trooping from the Point Judith Country club at dawn, overshadowed the mystery of the $200,000 jewel robbery in the society colony today.

Few jewels were worn at the party, which was given by Malcolm Stevenson, but the lack of jewels was equalled only by the lack of conventional dress, according to reports. The party was regarded as one of the most daring of the season. The search for the missing jewels of Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey and Mrs. John H.
Hanan had practically shifted today to New York and Boston.

FIND 3,000 CANS OF ROTTEN MEAT

Criminal Complaint Lodged Against Chicago Packing Firm by Prosecutor

ALLEGED PACKED SEVEN YEARS

Complaint Charges that Labels Were Pasted on Packages to Deceive Public

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 1.—Following the arrest of three local merchants who hold 3,000 cans of decayed meat, a criminal complaint has been lodged by Deputy Prosecutor White against the firm of Sulzberger & Son of Chicago. It charges that the Sulzberger concern deliberately misbranded the cans, so as to unload meats packed seven years ago.

A chemical analysis by the state chemists showed that the meat was so rotten that there was dangerous poisoning in every can. White says the cans were packed prior to the passage of the 1906 pure food law by the firm of Schwarzchild & Sulzberger, which was later succeeded by Sulzberger & Son. They bore the original inscription that they had been approved under the federal act of 1891. This was covered up, however, by labels under the new law stating that the cans had been passed under the pure food act of 1906.

The cans were originally plain tin but had been enameled, giving a new appearance, although many showed signs of corrosion. White asserts the meat in many of the tins was black as coal. Food Inspector Adams, who was called into the case by White, says it is impossible to estimate how much of the meat has gone into homes here.

Similar complaints have been filed against the J. P. Graft company and the Puget Sound Packing company for selling decayed "potted turkey" and "Maryland Crab Flakes" in cans.
The proceedings taken against these concerns are independent of any action by the United States government.

SENATOR'S SON IS HELD IN AFFAIR

Benjamin Bishop of Kenosha Held in Connection with Knife Murder

KENOSHA, Aug. 1.—Benjamin Bishop, son of State Senator Isaac T. Bishop, is out on $1,000 bond today, in connection with the killing of Otto Langenbach, 29, a wealthy business man of this city. Langenbach was stabbed following a quarrel over a dice game in a hotel barroom Wednesday night. Before his death at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, he identified Peter Jarvie, 18, an employe on Senator Bishop's farm, as his assailant. Jarvie and young Bishop were together the night of the affray. Jarvie is held on a charge of murder in the first degree.

Bishop and Jarvie were arrested ten minutes after the stabbing, which occurred just before midnight.

According to Langenbach's antemortem statement, the stabbing occurred just outside the hotel barroom. He said when he left the bar Jarvie followed him and struck him. The blade penetrated a rib and exposed the heart. The wounded man staggered back into the saloon and fell to the floor. He was removed to the hospital at once.

Jarvie and his companion, young Bishop, were taken into custody by two members of the Kenosha fire department. Utmost difficulty was experienced in getting the boys to the station house, it was said, owing to the efforts of several of Langenbach's friends, who tried to take the prisoners from the officers.

Young Bishop protested his innocence and was allowed to spend the night at his home, under police guard. His father has been summoned from Madison. Jarvie was so badly beaten following the stabbing that he is under the care of a physician.

Young Langenbach was the son of a Kenosha pioneer. He was a motor car expert.

Lupus Worst Form of Skin Diseases

Blood Disorders are Banished by S. S. S.

A tiny pimple spreads to the side of the face and often covers the cheeks and bridge of the nose. It is very destructive to the glands of the skin. No external treatments will overcome it as the cause of lupus is from impurities in the blood supply. The only known method of cure is to get the blood supply under the control of S. S. S., the famous blood specific. Its action is quite remarkable and has direct influence upon the network of small blood vessels and glands in the skin.

From the fact that S. S. S. is purely a botanical preparation, it is accepted by the weakest stomach and has great tonic influence in all the digestive organs. It is certainly a wonderful blood medicine, and is prepared direct from the experts of the famous Swift Laboratory. Not one drop of minerals or drugs is used in its preparation. Ask for S. S. S. and insist upon having it. And if you desire skillful advice and counsel upon any matter concerning the blood and skin, write to the Medical Department, The Swift Specific Co., 183 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga. CHINAMEN SAIL TO BRING BRIDES

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 1.—Moy Bock Quong and Moy Bock Ton, sons of the proprietor of Milwaukee's largest Chinese restaurant, left today for Vancouver, B. C., and on August 15 they will sail on the Empress of China for Hong Kong, each to claim a bride he has never seen. When the young men returned from school at an eastern university in June, they were told by their father that he had chosen wives for them, daughters of merchant friends in Hong Kong. When they left this morning each had a trunk full of American presents for his bride. Among the presents was an American parasol, a box of candy, and bottled beer, to be opened at the wedding feast.

Truth and Judgment Day.

In Truth there is no especial day of judgment. Every day now is a judgment day. Judgment is being administered for every thought, word and action. The day of judgment is the time in which we experience the results of our own creations. Oftentimes we are not conscious of the judgment day, but, even so, we are constantly arriving at the "judgment day"—Arthur D. Dell, in Unity.

Importance of Being Married.

Men are nothing but overgrown children. They always love to eat and drink what is not good for them. You scarcely ever meet an unmarried man over forty who hasn't something wrong with him, and it would be the same with all the married men if their wives were not constantly on the watch to see that they only eat the things that agree with them.—The Gulf Between, by P. Y. Redmayne.

Down the Line.

KILLED JUST AFTER WIFE COMES OVER

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 1.—Two years ago Joseph Puehringer came to Milwaukee from Germany and went to work as a laborer. His wages were small, but he lived frugally and saved enough money to buy steamer tickets for his wife and two little girls. They boarded the first boat and reached Milwaukee Saturday.

Wednesday night Puehringer failed to return home. Today his wife, who cannot speak English, identified his body in the morgue, where it had been taken after being struck by a passing train. Mrs. Puehringer is in the hospital in a critical condition.

Fine Art of Visiting.

An Atchison girl who spends much of her time visiting has made a study of the art and is a very successful guest. One of the first things she does upon arriving is to call her hostess and family into her room and exhibit every rag she owns. She empties boxes, trays and trunks to the bottom layer. She says it saves her hostess the trouble of snoopng among her things when she is out.—Atchison Globe.

Irish Bull in Germany.

Much amusement has been caused by an official notice, published in the Hanover Anzeiger, saying an order has been made that "the last carriage shall not be attached to railway trains," as it is "always subject to unpleasant shocks and oscillation."

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Why Brutus, the Haughty Lion, Looked Pleasant.

They Took Some Lovely Pictures.

THE little boy next door had a new camera, one of the tiny ones that cost so little and give little folks so much pleasure.

And the little boy next door had that afternoon taken Jack and Evelyn's pictures as they sat on their own doorstep. Great was the joy of Jack and Evelyn. They told daddy all about it.

"Did the little boy tell you to 'please look pleasant' when he snapped the picture?" daddy asked.

"No; maybe he forgot that," Jack suggested, adding to Evelyn.

"That is a very serious thing to forget," daddy went on. "Why, they even asked Brutus to look pleasant when he had his picture taken."

"Who was Brutus?" the children inquired.

"Brutus," daddy explained, "is a handsome lion who lives in the Cincinnati zoo. Every one admires him, and he is perhaps a little vain of the attention he gets. Like many beauties, Brutus is very changeable."

"Though the lion's pet keeper one day came in with the moving picture photographer and coaxed and prodded him to the front of the box where the light was good, they couldn't make Brutus look pleasant."

"You see, they wanted the picture of a good natured, not of a grouchy lion. 'Does he never look pleasant?' the camera man asked in despair."

"Yes, indeed," the keeper replied, a little offended. "Brutus is really a very pleasant sort of lion in his own way, but he doesn't like to be made to do things he doesn't want to."

"Well, when does he seem to be most pleased?" he asked the keeper.

"When he is getting his dinner, sir," the keeper replied.

"The moving picture man looked pleased himself when he heard this. Maybe he likes his own dinner."

"Then let's feed him," he cried.

"So the keeper got a big piece of raw beef and, placing it on the end of a stick, held it out to the lion."

"A lovely expression spread over the face of Brutus. He wondered why his friend didn't poke the meat into his cage. He wasn't used to being fooled."

"When the meat stayed outside the cage the lion reached out a paw to grab it, and then the camera man took some fine pictures."

"When he got through and while Brutus was gobbling down his piece of beef the camera man said that a good many people besides lions only look pleasant when they are thinking about their dinners."

Short Story

A LITTLE MISTAKE

By STACY E. BAKER

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"You will have trouble unless you subdue him in the beginning," the funny, little old directors of Township school No. 3 had said in warning her against incorrigible Tom Lacey.

"Don't give him an inch," Tom Murdock, spokesman for the trio, had further maintained. "If you do he'll take a mile." He clenched horny hands as he thought of the youth who had already driven three teachers from the institution.

And this blue-eyed girl was such a mere slip of a thing! It seemed a shame that after this big, hulking teacher Hawkins had failed to win discipline this maid had to be sacrificed.

"None of them will bother you," squeaked Ezra Virnlock, the smallest of the directors, "if you can handle Lacey. He's a man grown, and as old as you, I take it, but you'll find you've got to treat him like a four-year-old that needs a thrashing."

"Don't worry," asserted Miss Marjorie Dawn. "I will break his will."

the first day of school or I'll give him a whipping that he will remember to his grave. I am firm, gentlemen."

The directors tactfully refused to debate the question.

Had Marjorie not known that her school was considered the hardest to handle in the country, she would not have believed it on the day of the opening following the enforced vacation caused by the abdication of Hawkins. There was not a scholar who did absolutely fulfill the requirements of a model student. But Tom Lacey was not present.

It seemed strange to Marjorie, direct from the city school, that a youth the size of Lacey would be allowed to attend what was essentially a primary institution with but few advanced classes.

She was puzzling over this same subject on the day of her installation, when there came a mart tap at the door.

A subdued quiet fell like a pall over the studying youngsters. Scarcely a scholar seemed to breathe. Instinctively the girl slipped something taken from the drawer in her desk beneath her neat apron as she silently tiptoed to the rear of the little school house.

A smiling youth stood on the threshold as she opened the door. With a quick, appraising glance, she summed up broad shoulders, blue shirt without a suspicion of a tie, heavy boots, and then, rising quickly, her own encountered quizzical jet orbs, frank in their admiration of this pretty new teacher.

"Just thought I'd stop a moment and look in on you," explained the youth, smiling.

A giggle from behind caused her to turn swiftly. Eager expectation punctuated the faces of her hitherto model scholars.

"I'm pretty well known to the school directors, especially Mr. Murdock. When they call tell them that Tom—"

"You can tell them anything you care to," interrupted the girl sharply. "And you will be right here to do it—don't doubt that! I see you have left a fishing pole out at the gate. Did you, by any chance, imagine that you were going fishing?"

It was now certain to Marjorie Dawn that Tom Lacey was an actor. The ludicrous look of amazement spreading over his rather pleasing face proved it.

"Why, I had thought so," he slowly answered. "There seems to be no good reason why I shouldn't."

"Indeed? There is every reason in the world why you shouldn't." A nervous little foot tapped the floor. "I have a seat waiting for you, Thomas, and I must request—may I insist—that you come in and occupy it."

"Exercises?" asked the youth, staring in a peculiar manner.

"There will be," confessed Marjorie Dawn, "unless you see fit to follow my instructions." From beneath her apron she drew a sturdy, well-seasoned hickory switch. "You come with a bad reputation, my boy, but I believe I can cope with you."

The young man still continued to stare. Now was the psychological moment to break his will—or so thought Marjorie.

"Come in," she snapped, "or—"

She raised her formidable weapon threateningly.

"But—"

"Don't argue about it. You may go fishing after school, if you wish, but you have more important matters before you."

"It seems so," commented the youth, dryly. "The board—"

"Will be here this afternoon, and you may explain then."

Tom smiled. With a graceful gesture he removed his old cap and stepped into the room.

"And where am I supposed to sit?" he asked quietly.

Inwardly the teacher thrilled. So she had broken the spirit of the local bugaboo! But perhaps this was only the lull that anticipated a storm. She must remain firm.

"You will take your place on the front seat," she decreed sternly. "Your reputation isn't exactly what it ought to be, and you will bear watching."

"My reputation is all right," indignantly denied the youth. "I—"

With a side leap Tom avoided the descending whip.

"You will speak when you are asked to," assured the girl, brushing a wisp of yellow hair back into a glowing hair mass. "I am expected to do the talking here."

Without another word the disturber sank into his place. Marjorie inventoried her flock. Amazement substituted the expectation found there before. Evidently her scholars had not thought the school bully could be so easily worsted.

Suddenly a dozen small hands arose. This indicated, according to school ethics, the wish of their owners to speak.

"Well?" The dictator favored a small, tousled haired boy with an affirmative nod.

"Oh, teacher," piped a startled voice, "you've gone and done it now. That fellow's Mr. Tom—"

"I know who he is," interrupted the teacher. "If that is all you wish to say sit down. He is big enough to speak for himself, I think."

"If given a chance," added the big boy on the front seat.

Tap! tap!

With a warning glance backward at her new pupil, Marjorie tripped to the door to admit the visiting school board.

"See you've got visitors," contributed Ezra Virnlock as he shuffled in at the head of the three official callers.

"Why didn't you give Tom a seat on the rostrum?" disapproved Hiram Murdock, frowning. "That contrivance he's occupying don't seem exactly suited." He grinned down at the youth on the front seat, who returned his smile.

"I think he's satisfied where he is," allowed Marjorie. "He actually was going fishing—until I compelled him to come in."

"Compelled him?" questioned Murdock in surprise. "I didn't know you even knew my son."

"Your son," gasped the amazed Marjorie. "Why, isn't that Tom Lacey?"

The directors stared curiously at the teacher. A conclusive titter came here and there from listening scholars. The new student, seemingly encouraged by the turn matters had taken, arose and came forward, cap in hand.

"I guess it is partly my fault," he confessed. "You see I—er—thought she might be a little bit—er—demented and I really didn't insist upon explanations—especially after she told me you were coming."

Out of Sorts

THAT IS, something is wrong with baby, but we can't tell just what it is. All mothers recognize the term by the lassitude, weakness, loss of appetite, inclination to sleep, heavy breathing, and lack of interest shown by baby. These are the symptoms of sickness. It may be fever, congestion, worms, croup, diphtheria, or scarlatina. Do not lose a minute. Give the child Castoria. It will start the digestive organs into operation, open the pores of the skin, carry off the foetid matter, and drive away the threatened sickness.

THEIR WORK MUST BE CONSTRUCTIVE

Expressing its view regarding the La Follette to play in the debate, the Racine Times says:

"Announcement of the intention of Senator La Follette to devote several days to criticism of the Wilson-Underwood tariff bill by means of a speech in the senate, has aroused a great deal of interest at Washington as well as in other parts of the country. Senator La Follette is one of the greatest students of political and economic matters who ever came into public life in America, and there can be no doubt but that what he says on the tariff will be worthy of consideration.

"He probably will take about the same stand as he took when discussing the Payne-Aldrich bill, and argue for reduction of tariff duties to a point where the manufacturer and producer are offered protection from competition of cheap labor countries, but he will maintain that in many industries no tariff is needed, while in others only a small one is required.
He will protest against the policy of tariff for revenue only, because he does not consider that should be the basis of a tariff schedule.

"However, indications are that the democrats will make but few concessions to the tariff views of any republicans, even though they might give more consideration to La Follette than any other member of the minority. It would appear that Senator La Follette is in danger of being required to cast the vote to decide whether the obnoxious Aldrich law or the imperfect Underwood bill shall serve this country for the next four years and if this situation should arise Wisconsin probably would prefer to see assistance given to the democrats."

Probably this is not far from the mark of what is right, but we attach less importance to what La Follette will do in the debate than to what progressive republicans will do when the voting begins. The following dispatch indicates that the progressive stand is not to be a defense of words:

"WASHINGTON, July 29.—A leading the leadership of Senator Smoot, ten progressive senators yesterday tentatively agreed to support Senator La Follette's signature to tariff schedule on cotton, wool and other sections. This was decided upon at a conference in which the following eleven insurgents participated:

"La Follette, Cummins and Penyon, Iowa; Crawford and Stei-Dakota; Bristow, Kansas; Works,

California; Borah, Idaho; Gronna, North Dakota; Clapp, Minnesota, and Norris, Nebraska. Senator Poldevter refused to join the insurgents."

The task which devolves upon Senator La Follette is a most important one. Under his leadership, by amendment and analysis of the Wilson bill, the exact status of the progressive republicans in relation to the tariff must be made a matter of record. The mere fact that the democrats will probably defeat the amendments does not detract from the value of the work. The progressive republican contention for a tariff based upon the scientific findings of a board of experts must be sustained when the record is made, and the amendments voted down, it will be time for progressives to choose between the infamous Aldrich tariff and perhaps too radical provision of the Wilson measure. That their reference must be for the latter we cannot doubt.

ABOUT WOMEN POLICE OFFICERS

Mayor Harrison's ordinance for the appointment of ten women police officers has been recommended for passage by the committee on schools of the Chicago council, an act which is said to assure its being passed. According to the plans, the new officers will be assigned to bathing beaches and public playgrounds. In view of Mayor Soren-sen's request for a woman police office for La Crosse, the topic has interest here.

Several cities are experimenting with women officers, especially in the handling of young women who frequent the streets at night. In many respects a woman is better qualified to do work of this kind than a man is. For one thing, she often can gain the confidence of those she is called upon to correct and if she is the right kind of a woman can do a constructive work in character building. Many of the girls picked up on the street only need straight, honest advice from some one they trust to mend their ways. A policeman can not always give this advice in the way that it should be given. In the first place, the sex of sex is always present between a male officer and a female prisoner, and, in the second, the policeman's general experience often makes him rough and callous. His conduct in former cases of this nature leads him to look with suspicion at possibly a measure of contempt on any methods but the severely direct and harsh ones he is accustomed to using.

The woman officer, if chosen for her duties after a careful consideration of her personality and her training for the work, should bring to it a freshness of view point and a sympathy that would help mightily in keeping her from getting into a rut. With children and young people generally she should be able to exert an influence that would save man of them, at least from persist-ing in the first false steps. Cities, recognizing that the time has come when the problem of vice must be attacked from a new angle, show an appreciation of the responsibilities by their readiness to try an innovation which, wisely handled, should help toward a solution. We commend Mayor Sorensen's suggestion.

Thin Food

Tommy went out to dine at a friend's house one evening. When the soup was brought Tommy did not touch his, and the hostess, looking over, said:

"Why, Tommy, dear, what's the

"Yes," replied Tommy, "I'm quite hungry; but I'm not thirsty."

An Uncertain Dog

"What do you call your dog?"

"Stock Market."

"What a peculiar name. Any particular reason?"

"I should say so. Most unreliable dog you ever saw. You can next."—Life.

The Overlooked Oyster

"The Youngs had dropped in unexpectedly upon the Baileys just as dinner was about to be served.
Mother, who was somewhat disturbed, called Helen aside and explained that there would not be enough oysters to go round and added:
"Now, you and I will just have some of the broth. And please do not make any fuss about it at table." Little Helen promised to be good and say nothing. But when the oysters were served Helen discovered a small one that had been accidentally laded up with her broth.
She could not remember any instructions that covered this contingency, so, after studying the situation a while, she held the oyster up as high as she could on her spoon and piped out:
"Mamma, mamma, shouldn't Mrs.
Young have this oyster, too?"

The Curt Reply

The aged lady next door had been quite ill, so one morning Willie's mother said to her small son:
"Willie, run over and see how old Mrs. Smith is this morning." Willie departed, but in a few minutes he came running back and said:
"She said it's none of your business."

A Close Financier

There was no doubt about the fact that Jack McFaddy was a Scotsman. Last year, when journeying to the country on an important errand he left his purse, containing nearly $500 on gold and silver at the railway station from which he started.

He telegraphed the fact on his arrival and the purse was kept till his return a month later.

It was a young clerk who handed Joekie MacF, his new purse with the "spondies" as he set foot out of the train, and certain wild hopes were making that young man's heart beat a trifle unevenly.

"Isn't it right sir?" stammered the latter, in bewilderment.

"Right—right! It's right enough.
But where's the interest, mon?" was MacFaddy's stern retort.

Teeth and Chickens

The seventh grade was having final examinations in cooking. One of the questions was, "How would you tell the difference between a spring chicken and an old fowl?"

"By the teeth," Eleanor replied.

"Oh, but you know chickens haven't any teeth, Eleanor," said the teacher.

"I know that," Eleanor retorted, "but the people who eat them have."

Supported by the Court

A young lawyer is the hero of this story. At least, he was young when the incident occurred. Now his name is so prominent in legal circles that it would be unkind to reveal it.

He was defending a criminal and, in doing so, was making his first appearance in court.

"The unfortunate client for whom it is my privilege to appear," he said, his tongue and lips dry and thick;
"the unfortunate client, your honor, whom I am defending—ahem! ahem!—I will repeat your honor, the unfortunate man whom I here represent—I might say, the most miserable and unfortunate man—just then the judge leaned forward and in a soft, encouraging manner proceeded, sir. So far, the court with you."—Popular Magazine.

Killed One?

At the interested visitors of the barracks at Washington on one occasion there was a party of young girls from a Maryland town, one of the officers of the barracks. They proved very much interested in everything pertaining to the life and discipline of the army.

"What do you mean by 'taps'?" asked the young woman.

"Taps are played every night on the bugle," answered the officer.

"It means 'lights out.' They play it over the bodies of dead soldiers."

A puzzled look came to the face of the questioner. Then she asked: "What do you do if you haven't a dead soldier?"—Harper's Weekly.

LEANING TOWER IS WEAKENING AGAIN

The Leaning Tower of Pisa, Italy, which for many generations has been a great source of revenue to Italians in the money paid by tourists, is reported to be weakening at the foundation. Much work must be done to save it from falling, for water has seeped into the foundation from the River Arno. The water is to be drained off and the base is to be widened and filled to the level of the ground with concrete.

IN THE WORLD OF WOMEN

As a result of the enfranchise-ment of women in Illinois, a full-fledged woman's department has been created in the office of the election commission. Mrs. Alice M.
Judge has been temporarily selected as chief of the new division. She has three assistants and four traveling expounders of election methods who will appear before women's clubs and organizations to explain the modus operandi.

Meta J. Erickson, recently elected president of the Amador Central Railroad in California, is said to be the only woman railroad president in the United States.

Mrs. Edith Pierce has just been appointed a street inspector in the bureau of highways, Philadelphia, at a salary of $1,200. The department recently let down the bars of women applicants and forty-four took the examination. Mrs. Pierce, who is secretary of the Home and School league, is the first woman to receive such an appointment in the city.

The Naples Table association, for promoting laboratory research by women, has granted the use of a table at the zoological station at Naples to Dr. Caroline Thompson, professor of botany at Wellesley college.

"But it's such a dreadfully long time to wait," sobbed Betsy-Barbara, her eyes giving signs of a clearing shower. "that I scarcely dare look ahead. And when I think of the trial and the awful strain on Constance—"

"If there ever is a trial," replied Rosalie. "Why, he hasn't even been indicted yet. You don't understand the game or you'd know how much that means. They don't dare indict him with the little tiny bit of evidence they've got. It's long, but the longer the night the brighter the day, I say. An' just when it seems you haven't a drop of strength left, is the very time you get strength from somewhere. I've got my own ideas about where it comes from—but there! That's religion, an' we ain't talkin' religion. Of course, you're goin' to let me help you."

While Rosalie spoke, she had mechanically handed Betsy-Barbara the atomizer. Mechanically, Betsy-Barbara took it and sprayed her pearly throat with toilet water. Mechanically again, Rosalie gave her a square of chamois, white with face powder. Mechanically, Betsy-Barbara passed it over cheeks and nose.

"Thank you—but you have helped a great deal already," said Betsy-Barbara, emerging from these min-istrations a delicious, white-faced little clown. "I don't know what ever I should have done without you," she added as she dusted off the superfluous powder with little dashing touches of her hands.

"Oh, that's nothin'. I'm a horse for carrying troubles—other peo-le's. I haven't a chick or child or husband or relation, which is why I never lug round any serious worries of my own. But I've found enough an' to spare of other people's since I took over the remains of this Hanska murder case. If murderers only knew," she added, dimpling, "how much they put out a person's way of life, they'd count ten first and never do it."

Betsy-Barbara, smoothing her brows and brushing powder out of her lashes with her finger-tips, smiled at this pleasant, grim though it was.

"I didn't know," she said, "that the case greatly bothered any one here except Constance and me—or not since Mr. North was released at any rate."

"Well, I wish that was all," began Rosalie. She paused here for a second, her body frozen to a pose.
So she always paused upon the birth of a new idea. Had she known of this habit, she would have practised to control it; for she had studied, during thirty years of trafficking with man's emotional expression, to let no external sign betray her real thought—unless she wished to betray that thought. But this was such an infinitesimal trick of manner that none, not even her shrewdeyed fellows of her old craft, had ever discovered it. We, however, who behold and study Rosalie Le Grange from the standpoint of the divine, may observe it and make comment. As we read the mazes of her diplomacies, it will be a guide to our feet.

"Mainly," resumed Rosalie after this little significant pause, "it's this Miss Estrilla. The whole affair has got dreadfully on her nerves.
She's being sick as she is—all run down."

At mention of that name, Betsy-Barbara looked up suddenly. Some harder emotion, Rosalie observed, seemed to pierce the thinning cloud of her grief.

"Yes!" said Betsy-Barbara. Her tone was non-committal.

"The shock got on her nerves.
She was away up on the top floor that night, hearin' everything, and it seem' nothing at all. That always makes it worse. She wouldn't even read the papers afterward, an' I never mention the case to her—nor do you, dearie. I soon found out that she's like you an' me—she's the kind who worry about other people's troubles. An' it's queer, but little thing bothers her a whole lot. She heard about Mr. North comin' home drunk, an' she's afraid that he'll go bad with liquor thinking about his arrest. Tell me," she added, suddenly shifting the line of attack, "he has really cut out liquor an' got busy, hasn't he?"

Rosalie, reading Betsy-Barbara's mind by the process of observing expressions and making swift deductions thereon, perceived that Betsy-Barbara was about to say, "What affair is it of yours?" She perceived also that the better part of Betsy-Barbara, the part which impelled her to her philanthropies of service, had put down that vixenish reply.

"Yes," said Betsy-Barbara. "I think he won't drink any more. He is too busy with his agency."

"How's it going?" asked Rosalie.

"Splendid, I hear," replied Betsy-Barbara. "He's getting promises of some very good business already."

Rosalie resumed her best motherly expression.

"Now, I'm just as sure as I can be," she said, "that you were the person who made him do it. When I first thought over the case of that young man, I saw what he needed.
An' he's got it, all right! Guess you can count on him. When a man really has the habit, he's gone. But when he hasn't, all he needs is something more interesting to do."

"I think so," replied Betsy-Barbara, relieved that Rosalie seemed to be prying no further into her relations with Tommy North.

"I'm sure, Will, gettin' back to Miss Estrilla. She showed that day a little talk with me that Mr. North

She hesitated. This was genuinely puzzling. Rosalie's memory, playing

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo is the original granulated Burley Tobacco, and has been more widely imitated than any other high-grade tobacco in the world. Thousands of America's most famous men have found that smoking Tuxedo affords them complete relaxation, soothing comfort, and healthful enjoyment. And every man who tries Tuxedo will find the same desirable qualities in this pure, mild, delightful tobacco.

You can smoke Tuxedo, no matter how many other pipe-tobaccos you have tried and had to give up—for Tuxedo does not irritate the most sensitive mouth, throat or nose—in fact, many public speakers and singers find that smoking Tuxedo has a soothing, helpful influence on their throats.

Tuxedo is made from the very best selected Burley tobacco grown in Kentucky—carefully ripened, cured and aged until it is perfectly mild and mellow. Then treated by the famous "Tuxedo Process" that removes the last trace of "bite" and bitterness, and develops the wonderful fragrance and flavor of the Burley leaf. Tuxedo has many imitators in the tin—but as long as the secrets of the "Tuxedo Process" remain undiscovered it will have no equal in the pipe or cigarette.

DOCK WRECK KILLS MANY AT DULUTH

Three Known Dead and a Score Missing as Result of Careless Switching of Ore Train

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 1.—At least three are dead, six are seriously injured and perhaps a score are missing today as a result of a collision between two ore trains at the Allouez ore docks last night. Thirty men were working on an ore train at the dock of track number two. Another train shunted at high speed struck the workmen's train, throwing the cars in every direction.

After the wreck occurred, a riot call had to be turned in and a big force of police sent to the scene to prevent dock workers, enraged by the carelessness of the railroad men from doing violence to the members of the train crew.

Half a dozen big ore boats, due to clear at noon for southern and eastern points were delayed today by the strike of 250 dock workers who went out after three of their fellow workmen had been killed and half a score injured in the ore train collision last night. The men allege that the condition under which they work are unsafe and say they will not return until safety is guaranteed.

PIPE SMOKING ON RAPID INCREASE

New Process by which Bite Is Removed from Tobacco Responsible for Great Popularity

"Have you noticed that many more men smoke pipes nowadays than five or ten years ago?" asked R. R. Nyeen, an experienced tobacco man who is at the La Crosse hotel for a few days. "It is no exaggeration to say," continued Mr. Nyeen, "that two million more men are smoking pipes now than were ten years ago. This tremendous increase is due to the discovery of a process of treating Burley tobacco to remove the bite from it."

"For many years tobacco men have known that Kentucky Burley is the sweetest and mildest of tobacco, but it remained for a Richmond doctor to discover the famous 'Tuxedo Process' which removes every trace of bite or sting, and preserves the original sweetness and freshness of the Burley."

That this "Tuxedo Process" does actually remove all the bite and sting from the tobacco, is proved by the hearty endorsement which the tobacco has received from hundreds of America's greatest men, including such well-known names as Rex Beach, John Philip Sousa, Congressman William F. Murray of Massachusetts and W. Stuart Reubert of Pennsylvania, George Randolph Chester the author, Harrison Flier the artist, Henry Rutherford the well-known expert on naval construction, Vilhjalmar Stefansson the noted explorer, and many others.

The manufacturers of Tuxedo are giving a practical demonstration of the justification of their claims as to the mildness, purity and fragrance of Tuxedo tobacco in this city this week, by giving free for a few days a splendid watch fob to each purchaser of a 10c tin of Tuxedo. The medallion is of solid brook or silver finish, and carries the great seal of the United States in bas-relief. The strap is of fine smooth black leather, with a handsome amebled buckle, strong and serviceable. The fob is at the same time useful and ornamental, and may be considered one of the most remarkable free propositions ever offered to the public.

HERE 35 BODIES OF GIRL FIRE VICTIMS ARE BURIED

This photograph, taken after the fire which destroyed the Binghamton, N. Y., clothing factory, where some sixty-three girls lost their lives, shows the smoldering ruins where the bodies of thirty-five victims are believed to be buried. Firemen and others have worked day and night digging in the brick and mortar to haul out the bodies. In the meantime, the investigations to determine on whose shoulders should rest the blame for the loss of life are under way.

One Way to Have Lace.

Benjamin Franklin was a wit as well as a philosopher. His daughter once wrote him to send her from Paris some lace and feathers, which extravagance on her part, he says, "disgusted me as much as if you had put salt into my strawberries." And he adds: "As you say you should have great pride in wearing anything I send and showing it as you father's taste, I must avoid the opportunity of doing that with either lace or feathers. If you wear your cambric ruffles as I do and take care not to mend the holes, they will come in time to be lace; and feathers, my dear girl, may be had in America from every cock's tail."

Wise Child.

The little daughter of a prominent divine, whom it would be cruel to name, was recently taken to her father's church for the first time. She was, of course, intensely interested in all that went on.

A true little Yankee, her first remark on coming out was:

"Do all those little boys in nighties get paid for singing?"

"Yes, I suppose so," replied her mother.

"And does father get paid too?"

"Yes."

"Well, I shouldn't think they'd have to pay him much, for he does nothing but talk, and he just loves to do that."

A Crocodile In a Tree.

An African hunter once found a large crocodile hanging in the fork of a tree about ten feet from the ground. As the place was fully half a mile from any water, it was difficult to account for the crocodile's strange position. When questioned upon the subject the natives explained that it was put there by an elephant. It seems that when the elephants wade into the Lake Ngami to bathe the crocodiles are in the habit of worrying them and biting their legs. Sometimes when an elephant is annoyed beyond endurance it picks up its tormentor in its trunk, puts it among the branches of a tree and leaves it there.—London Graphic.

HEARING HERE ON ACCIDENT CLAIM

A hearing is being held in the county court room by J. D. Beck, member of the Wisconsin Industrial commission, on the claim of John Foley, a young man employed by the Wisconsin Pearl Button company, for compensation for injuries alleged to have been received while at work in the factory on North Third street.

Foley claims that an infection of his arm, which necessitated his confinement for several weeks, was caused by a piece of clam shell which entered his body while at work. The company disputed this claim.

If Foley wins before the commission he will be awarded sixty-five per cent of his wage for the time he was laid up. This is according to the provisions of the workmen's compensation act.

CASTRO'S REVOLT REAL REVOLUTION

BOGOTA, Aug. 1.—The revolution started in Venezuela last Monday apparently is a genuine one, according to further reports coming here today from Venezuelan sources. It is not doubted that the move was instigated by adherents of General Cipriano Castro, ex-president. General Carmelo Castro, his brother, is said to be in command of the rebels in Sachira, and it has not been denied that the former president is back in Venezuela.

MEAT TO SOAR

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—"American People will scarcely know the taste of meat this year," declared R. T. Russell, president of the Butchers' association at the annual picnic of Chicago butchers. "Meat sales over the nation have dropped off from 25 to 50 per cent within the last three years because it is getting so that only the rich will be in a position to buy meat by 1913. The scarcity of livestock is the reason."

MAYOR'S HOUSE FIRED.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Mayor Jos. Sevenson of Highwood, Ill., his wife and three children, narrowly escaped death when their home was destroyed by fire early today. Two empty kerosene cans were found near the house and firemen discovered that the rear porch had been saturated. Sevenson recently removed from office Marshal Eustis on the ground that he was not energetic enough in the arrest of "boot-leggers." He believes that enemies he had made in the fight of blind tigers fired the building.

URGES CROP RESERVE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—That the time has come when the federal government should adopt radical measures to prevent the money stringency which annually accompanies the crop movement, Senator Tillman of South Carolina today urged President Wilson to assume the initiative in legislation for that purpose. He told the president that the stringency was artificial, forced by bankers, whom he characterized as "financial pirates." He suggested that immediate action was imperative.

Cold Water Was Condemned.

In contrast with our present belief in cold water an English herbal published in 1529 says that "many folk that bathed them in cold water have dyed or they came home," while the danger of drinking nature's beverage is pointed out in the assertion that "it is impossible for them that drinketh overmuch water in their youth to come to ye age that God ordeyned them." Condemned alike as a beverage and a bath, cold water held a very meager place in medieval domestic economy.—Rural New Yorker

BARRON'S INSTALLS SPRINKLER SYSTEM

New Fire Checking Outfit Said to Be One of the Best in the State

The distinction of having one of the finest automatic sprinkler systems in the state of Wisconsin will rest with the E. R. Barron company, according to the statement made by P. J. Dunn, foreman of the crew that is installing the new system in the Barron building. The automatic sprinkler system has been installed in several of the local business houses but this system is said to be the best yet provided in La Crosse.

When completed it will include over 5,000 feet of piping completely covering the four floors of the building. Two large mains run through the building from the city water supply. To these mains are connected cross mains, two on each floor. To these cross mains a system of piping is connected. Along the pipes at intervals of eight feet are placed automatic sprinklers. Whenever a certain degree of heat or a flame strikes these sprinklers they release the water. In this way only those sprinklers which are near the fire are set off and it is not necessary to flood the whole building to extinguish a fire in one portion.

VENEZUELA MAKES GOMEZ DICTATOR

CARACAS, Venezuela, Aug. 1.—President Juan Vicente Gomez has been made a dictator by the federal council and authorized to exercise all the power of dictatorship. President Gomez has sent a personal letter to the governors of all states, apprising them that Castro is reported to be in Venezuela, and calling them to support the government in putting down the resolution.

Answered the Question.

W. J. Fox, a free trade colleague of John Bright, was a clever debater and unexcelled in repartee. His chief becker in Oldham was a local baker, who once had the misfortune to be fined by the magistrates for selling short weight bread. Fox also had the misfortune to separate from his wife. On one occasion, after he had delivered an address to his constituents, the baker got up and said:

"Mr. Fox, there is just one question I should like to ask you. What has become of your wife?"

"Sir," replied Fox, "she has been weighed in the balance and found wanting."

Before the Bar.

The terms "admitted to the bar" and "before the bar" are of English origin. The "bar" in question is the barrier or railing which separates the judge, and the other officers of the court from the rest of the courtroom. In earlier days the parties to a suit presented themselves before the bar, accompanied by their counsel. A lawyer, after keeping the required number of terms at the inns of court and passing a satisfactory examination, was then entitled to appear before the bar on behalf of a client, or in other words, he was "admitted to the bar." The English word barrister suggests the technical meaning of this word.

The bankers also expressed surprise at the announcement that the government would accept commercial paper as security for the deposits, which will be made.

ANCIENT SCULPTURE FOUND IN BALTIMORE

"Aphrodite," carved 3,000 years ago in Greece, was dug from a Baltimore cellar the other day, where it had reposed for half a dozen years, and might have been lost for all time. The statue, the head of a girl, perhaps five years of age, was in the National Museum of Athens for many years. In 1900 it was stolen. The Greek government spent large sums in tracing it, and finally the information came that a Greek candy merchant of Baltimore had it. He confessed when detectives put him through the third degree, and took then to the cellar where they unearthed it. Its discovery was due largely to the efforts of A. C. Vours, Greek charge d'affaires in Washington.

SPEND MILLIONS FOR RIVER WORK

Capt. W. A. Thompson Says Close of Present Season Will See Third of Six Foot Channel Done

WILL REVIVE RIVER TRAFFIC

Uncle Sam Pushing Work with All Possible Haste; Work in Section Progressing Rapidly

When Uncle Sam sends out the last voucher for the million and a quarter of dollars spent this summer in river improvement work on the upper Mississippi, practically one-third of the $10,000,000 six foot channel project will be completed, according to Captain W. A. Thompson, in charge of the work in this district.

Between St. Paul and the mouth of the Missouri river, between which points the work is being carried on, there are seven engineering divisions, each employing approximately three steamers, many barges, half a dozen quarter boats and 250 men, used in gathering brush and rock and constructing therefrom the wing dams and closing dams which will bring about a permanent six foot stage of water in the river channel, at low water mark established in 1864, and upon which basis all the government indicators were established.

That the six foot channel, considered necessary to the coming greatness of river traffic, is an enormous undertaking is indicated by the fact that it will cost $20,000,000 and require twelve years to finish. Four years have passed since the work started and for a distance of thirty or more miles, in each of the seven engineering divisions, the work has been completed.

Four Feet First Plan

In 1878 when the first practical river work was inaugurated the government worked on the basis of a four foot channel. This continued until about four years ago, when it was found a six foot channel would be required if the Mississippi was to be used extensively for traffic. Congress then appropriated $20,000,000, to be used at the rate of $1,250,000 per year.

The plan employed to create the six foot channel is simple, though slow and tedious. The theory is that the river the wing dams extend into the river, the more confined will be the channel and in order for the immense volume of water to pass through the narrower opening, it will scoop out the sandy bottom of the river to make room for itself.
Consequently, when the six foot work was started, old dams were extended and new ones built, confining the channel in some instances to a space little larger than to permit the passing of two large packets. Where formerly the river channel was as much as a thousand feet wide, the portion lying between Winona, Minn., and Genoa, Wis., after the dams are all in place will be 625 feet, and from Genoa to the mouth of the Wisconsin river, 700 feet.

The government quarries much of its own stone, but buys a great deal on contract, and practically all of the brush used is bought on contract at 24 cents a cubic yard.

Method Interesting

The method of constructing the dams is interesting to the layman.
The rock used comes to the workmen piled upon huge government barges.
The brush, tied in bundles convenient to handle, is also upon barges and towed into position by the steamer, the rock barge just below the rock barge, the interlying space remains open for the sinking of the dams to the bed of the river.
Another big barge containing a "derrick" engine is included in the fleet and operates the guy lines by which the operating barges are pulled up stream slightly as each layer of the dam is placed in position.

At the end of the open water between the construction barges is a device which once had a technical name, but which for twenty years has been known both officially and unofficially as the "grasshopper." The grasshopper consists of a barge with a raised forebrow, sloping toward the construction work. Workmen pile bundles of brush upon the grasshopper while it is woven and tied into brush "mattresses." When completed the barges release the mattress and it slides down into the water and is sunk with heavy rocks. When in position a layer of rock is placed over the mattress and the rock and brush layers are alternated until the dam reaches the required height. When the mattress is lowered into position, a second one is placed on the down stream side and heavily rocked to prevent the current sweeping over the obstruction, cutting away the foundation.

Built Like Leaning Towers

As the various layers of brush and rock are added, each is placed about three feet farther upstream than its predecessor so that the completed dam, if visible to the eye would represent a sort of "leaning tower." So adjusted is this off center construction that in the open air the structure would doubtless topple over, but the pressure of the water and current holds the pile in place. The construction is such that the current, sweeping down upon the construction carries the sand and earth around the end of the dam into the eddy formed and deposits it behind the dam.

Within a very short time after a dam is built a sand bar begins to form behind it and in time this bar rises out of the water and completely covers the dams, seeds carried by the winds take root and soon what was open river becomes new land.

Appreciation

The average man will succeed in a business he likes, providing he is placed in a community he likes.

We like this business, and to few men has it been given to find a lot cast among a people so congenial to them as is this community to us. Upon this, our Fifth Anniversary in La Crosse, we freely credit the successes we have achieved to the congeniality of a public that has exacted our honesty and good will, appreciated our humble attempts to please and, if with human fallibility we have sometimes erred, forgiven us with a kindly tolerance. It is this spirit in a city that carries business men above their business by exalting human relationship above commerce, and in recognition of its existence here we endow with an earnest purpose the pledge, in future, of good faith and honest service with which we accompany a grateful acknowledgment of the generous consideration we have enjoyed at the hands of our fellow citizens in the City of La Crosse and vicinity.

Sad Lesson.

A—"You don't seem to have any life in you. Is there nothing or nobody over which you can enthuse?" B—"Nothing at all. I once became enthusiastic over somebody, and a short time afterward she became my wife.
That was a sad warning to me to avoid enthusiasm."

What Mother Did.

Percy Noodles says speaking of automobiles, that when he asked the capitalist's daughter the other night how her father got his start, she replied that her impression was that her mother found him in neutral and cranked him up.

Couldn't Go With Him.

A well-known lawyer in Boston had a horse that always stopped and refused to cross the mill dam bridge leading out of the city. No whipping, no urging, would induce him to cross without stopping. So he advertised him: "To be sold, for no other reason than that the owner wants to go out of town."

Point of View.

A mind prepossessed by high beliefs interprets all things largely.— George Eliot.

the Mississippi believe that the completion of the Panama canal and the six foot channel will see a great revival of river traffic. The government is considering a canal between Lake Superior and the Mississippi river, and if this were to be built it would furnish a complete inland waterway opening up to navigation nearly half of the country. The proposed Superior-Mississippi canal would probably enter the river at St.
Croix and it is not unlikely that locks and dams might be necessary inasmuch as the river at St. Paul is seventy-eight feet higher than the level of Lake Superior. In fact the entire Mississippi river is higher than Lake Superior until Prairie du Chien is reached, which point is on about the same level.

Shippers Favor River
The government is at the present time conducting an investigation into the feasibility of constructing warehouses and docks at the principal cities along the Mississippi with a view to increased traffic. Commercial organizations of the territory have been requested to ascertain how much freight would be guaranteed if suitable service were to be installed, and replies now being tabulated indicate that shippers are prepared to guarantee sufficient business provided a long season service is established.
Engineers for the government are also conducting an investigation into the best towing methods adaptable to the conditions along the Mississiippi. These engineers recently returned from Europe where foreign rivers were studied. An appropriation of $500,000 has been made by congress and the bulk of this will be used in constructing model towboats and barges, intended to prove to investors the most economical and best methods. These towboats will probably be built along the same lines as those most successful on the rivers Elbe, Rhine and Danube where heavy traffic is handled each year. This board of engineers, however, is not expected to report for a year at which time these tests will be recommended. Most of the foreign tow-boats, excepting those passing through coal mining regions use internal combustion engines burning the lower grades of oil, in preference to coal.

MURDERED MAN FOUND IN CAR

BODY OF MAN KILLED AND ROBBED IS DISCOVERED IN MILWAUKEE YARDS IN MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 1.—The body of an unknown man, shot through the heart, was discovered in an empty freight car in the Milwaukee yards this morning. The victim was well-dressed and robbery was evidently the motive. The man's hat, and shoes had been taken and the murderers in their haste ripped the victim's pockets open with knives. Detectives believe the murder was committed on the street and that the body was dragged to the car to conceal it. The police believe the slayers expected the body would be removed to another city before the crime was discovered. The dead man was about 37 years old, 5 feet 5 inches in height, weighed 165 pounds, dark hair and brown eyes. He was dressed in a neat soft shirt with attached collar, grey trousers, and brown socks.

Think for a moment the wonderful satisfaction of being actually positive that every time you turn the hot-water faucet you are going to get hot-water—not warm or luke-warm—but hot—piping hot—and in unlimited quantities—no matter what hour of the day or night it may be—no matter how many baths have been taken—no matter whether the range or furnace is in action or not,—if you have a

HUMPHREY

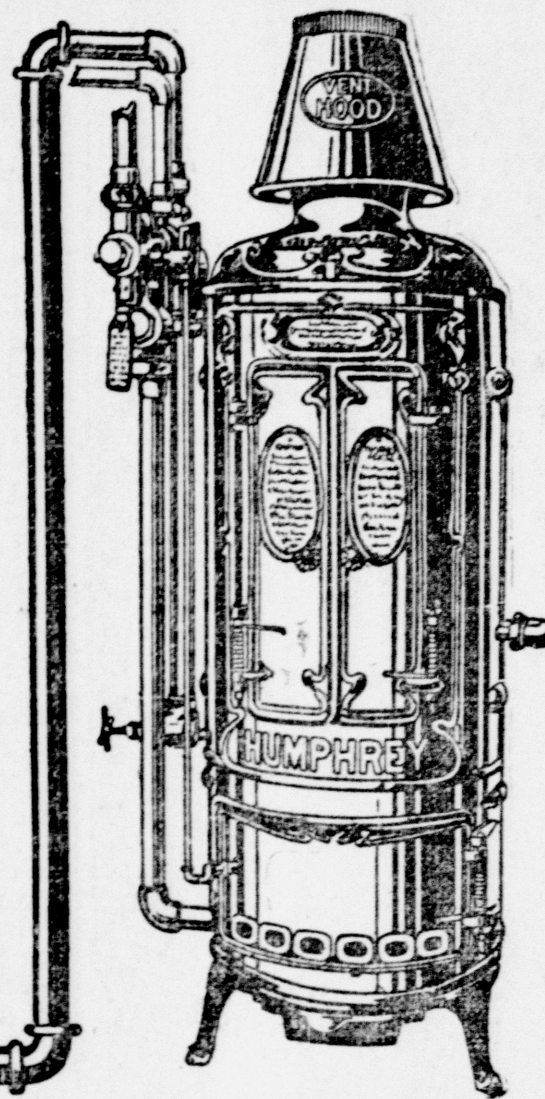

Automatic Geyser

You are positively sure of all the hot water you can use, at the exact minute you want to use it. That is a wonderful thing. You can't realize it if you have never enjoyed the luxury of unlimited hot water. The Humphrey Automatic Geyser heats the water as it flows. You simply connect it to the regular gas and water-pipes in kitchen or basement—light the small pilot—and turn the faucet. Turn any hot-water faucet in the house—instantly the hot water comes. It continues to flow as long as the faucet remains open. You can't exhaust the supply because it is heated as it flows. And the cost — You can't heat water in any other way so economically as with the Humphrey Automatic Geyser. You will readily understand why when you realize that

You Pay Only for Gas That Actually Heats Water

The gas is burning only while the water is running. The Humphrey Automatic Geyser reduces your fuel-bill—combines economy and luxury—and provides more hot water. Doesn't that sound good to you?

DEATH CAUSED BY LOSS OF BARN

RUSHFORD, Minn., Aug. 1.—A violent electrical storm, accompanied by heavy wind, passed over this section of the country Monday evening, leaving in its wake much destruction and in at least one instance, death. The city was shocked at an early hour this morning to hear that Rev. A. E. Boyum, aged about eighty years, had suffered a stroke of apoplexy upon finding that his immense barn had been struck by lightning at about eleven o'clock, burning to the ground, together with eighty tons of hay and six head of cattle. The old gentleman, who has resided on North Prairie for many years, was a retired minister, beloved by all who knew him. His health had not been of the best for some months and about three weeks ago he suffered a slight stroke of apoplexy, from which he never fully recovered.

The storm had seemed to disturb him considerably and when the flames burst out and threatened to consume his barn and other buildings, became very excited and when it was found impossible to save them, sank down unconscious, not regaining his senses between that time and when death came, at half-past six Tuesday morning. Mr. Boyum leaves besides an aged wife, seven children who are: Ivor, of Peterson, Minn., Elling, of Arendahl, Minn.; Mrs. Georgiana Anderson, of Peterson; Erick, Martin and Andrew who lived at home and worked the farm; and Dr. Boyum, a son whose whereabouts could not now be learned. These children survive out of a family of twelve. No funeral arrangements have been made, but the services will doubtless be at the North Prairie church.

Hugh Cooper, a former Rushford boy and now making a stir in the world of engineering and hydraulics, being the builder of the big dam at Keokuk, is here for a brief visit with his old-time friends and school mates.

L. A. Gullickson is a La Crosse visitor today, going down to transact business.

Mrs. Graig and son Harold, who have been absent from the city for several weeks, have returned to their home in the farther end of Brooklyn. Mrs. Graig has been spending the summer with a sister in S. D. while her son has been surveying roads down in Iowa.

John Christopherson, who was severely injured by being thrown from a scaffolding which broke while he was at work upon the Masonic temple in this city, has been forced to go to a La Crosse hospital for treatment, being hurt more than was thought at first.

Arthur and Norman Berk are enjoying themselves with little friends in the near-by country.

Thornton Alm, who has been spending several weeks with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gage, of Weaver, has returned home.

Mr. Stevens, of La Crosse, representing a Chicago firm, has been in our city for a few days.

John Crain, of Oak Ridge, was circulating among his friends of this city, one day this week.

Mrs. Hallihan was the guest of her friends in Lanesboro part of last week.

At top—Dr. A. D. Melvin, James E. Watson, Senator G. S. Cordova. At bottom — Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Oliver P. Newman.

Oliver P. Newman, the newspaper man appointed commissioner in Washington, receives a great deal of attention because of the fight politicians of the district are making against him. Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the bureau of animal industry, is going to Argentina to investigate slaughter house conditions. Senator G. S. Cordova, Ecuador minister, is the latest addition to the diplomatic corps. James E. Watson has been vindicated by Mulhall of charges previously made. North Side

BUILDING BOOM ON NORTH SIDE

According to Real Estate Dealers Land Is High and Houses Are in Demand

According to real estate dealers of the north side, dwelling houses are in demand far in excess of the present number that are vacant and for sale. With this demand, the prices for dwelling sites and for small store sites have advanced, say the dealers. More homes are being built this spring and summer than in several years past.

E. Preutz is building a large two story pebbledash dwelling at 1403 George street, which will be completed in the near future.

Dr. E. C. Swarthout recently started the construction of two cottages, at 1632 Avon street and 1846 George street. These are to be built in attractive style and to be modern in every way.

A four family flat is being constructed on St. Andrew street by Otto Granke. This building is to be the most up to date of its kind on the north side.

Henry Watson is adding unusual improvements to his residence at 1825 Kane street.

C. Everett and C. Lindt are excavating for houses on the north side which they will occupy themselves.

Otto Schlachach has recently started excavating for a large modern residence at 1441 George street, which he is in hopes of having finished this fall.

E. Gleason and J. Severson are excavating for frame structures on the north side of two stories at 1410 George street and at 1546 George street. They are to be built of medium size and modern.

With the prospect this fall of more men being employed by two manufacturing companies on the north side that are rebuilding their factories, a small increase is being noticed in the population.

CROWD WATCHES PLAY EXHIBITION

The West avenue playground was the scene of festivity last evening when Mr. Edwin Dahl, director of the playground, put on an exhibition which was a delight to the crowd which attended. A girls' program was under the direction of Miss Amanda Clement.

The exhibition was a success from the time of the starting of the indoor baseball game between the "Q" Kids of the north side and the Badgers of the West avenue ground to the finish of the girls' "shuttle" relay race. Mr. Anderson of the normal school had his class in "child study" there to observe the playground exercises and appeared pleased and many of the parents of the children who participated were surprised at the work shown.

FALLING ICE HITS SCHWARTZ ON HEAD

While hoisting ice into the ice box of the Wayside Inn on the north side yesterday, Charles Schwartz, a resident of the north side, was badly injured when the cake fell upon his head. Mr. Schwartz, with a fellow workman, was hoisting the ice by means of a block and tackle into the door. When the ice was well up into the air the tongs loosened their grip and the cake fell. Schwartz received a gash about three inches long. Schwartz was stunned by the blow and is suffering severe pain in his head today, but the injury is expected to disable him only a short time.

It was decided not to hire an ungraded teacher for the coming year. The report of the committee appointed to consider the suggestions of Professor Bray was read and after discussion was adopted. The report suggested the constructing of a four room building with gymnasium north of the present high school. It was also suggested that the kindergarten class be removed from the central school building and accommodations found for the same in a more central locality.

At Play Grounds

NORTH SIDE—SENIORS

Moore's Colts Come Back in Fine Style
After dropping two games last week the Colts came back with lots of "pep" and defeated the fast Rubber Mills aggregation, 7 to 3. Both teams played good fast ball and the large crowd which witnessed the game were treated to a real exhibition of baseball.

Rangers Take One
The Rangers played their best game when they defeated the Billkens to the tune of 14 to 1. In spite of the fact that the pitcher and a couple of the other players were absent, the Billkens thus handicapped, played a wonderful game. The Rangers were very fortunate in placing hits.

Nelsons Still in the Lead
The Nelsons spelled defeat to the fast Gold Birds, the final count being 10 to 2. The game had all the earmarks of professional baseball and the large crowd present received a treat such as they have not received for some time. The Gold Birds had the old "fight" throughout the game but could not connect with the offerings of Knutson.

MIDGETS

"Q" Kids Meet Tigers and Administer Telling Defeat
The Tigers went down to defeat at the hands of the fast "Q" Kids by a score of 23 to 5. The Tigers did not score until the fourth when they sent one run across the plate and three in the fifth.

Stars Beaten by the Champs

In a game marked by some good baseball and some "boneheaded" playing the Stars went down to defeat at the hands of the Champs, being trimmed 18 to 5. Although the Stars took a good lead in the beginning they could not hold the hard hitting Champs.

SOUTH SIDE

Seniors
In a great pitchers' battle, the Imperials defeated the Cardinals by the score of 4 to 1, and now hold undisputed claim to first place in the Senior league. Opportune hitting in the first four innings gave the Imperials the game. Harris for the Cardinals and Weigle for the Imperials pitched the game of their lives and the best team won.

The Pirates hung up a victory over the Cardinals by a score of 11 to 3. Harris, star pitcher of the Cardinals, was absent which accounts in a measure for the large score.

Juniors

The Cardinals continued to win, this time defeating the Dodgers of Hood street by the score of 6 to 2. Heft pitched a good game for the winners and allowed the Dodgers a few measly hits in the first and fourth innings, giving them their two runs.

The Cardinals lost their first game in two weeks when the Hoos-lers of Hood street defeated them by the score of 9 to 7. Both sides hit hard but "Dame Fortune" smiled on the Hoosiers giving them the game. By winning this game the Hoosiers clumb into first place.

The Hoosiers of Hood street defeated the Ramblers in an exciting contest on the Hood street grounds, proving their superiority in a well played game. Score, 9 to 4.

Midnet League

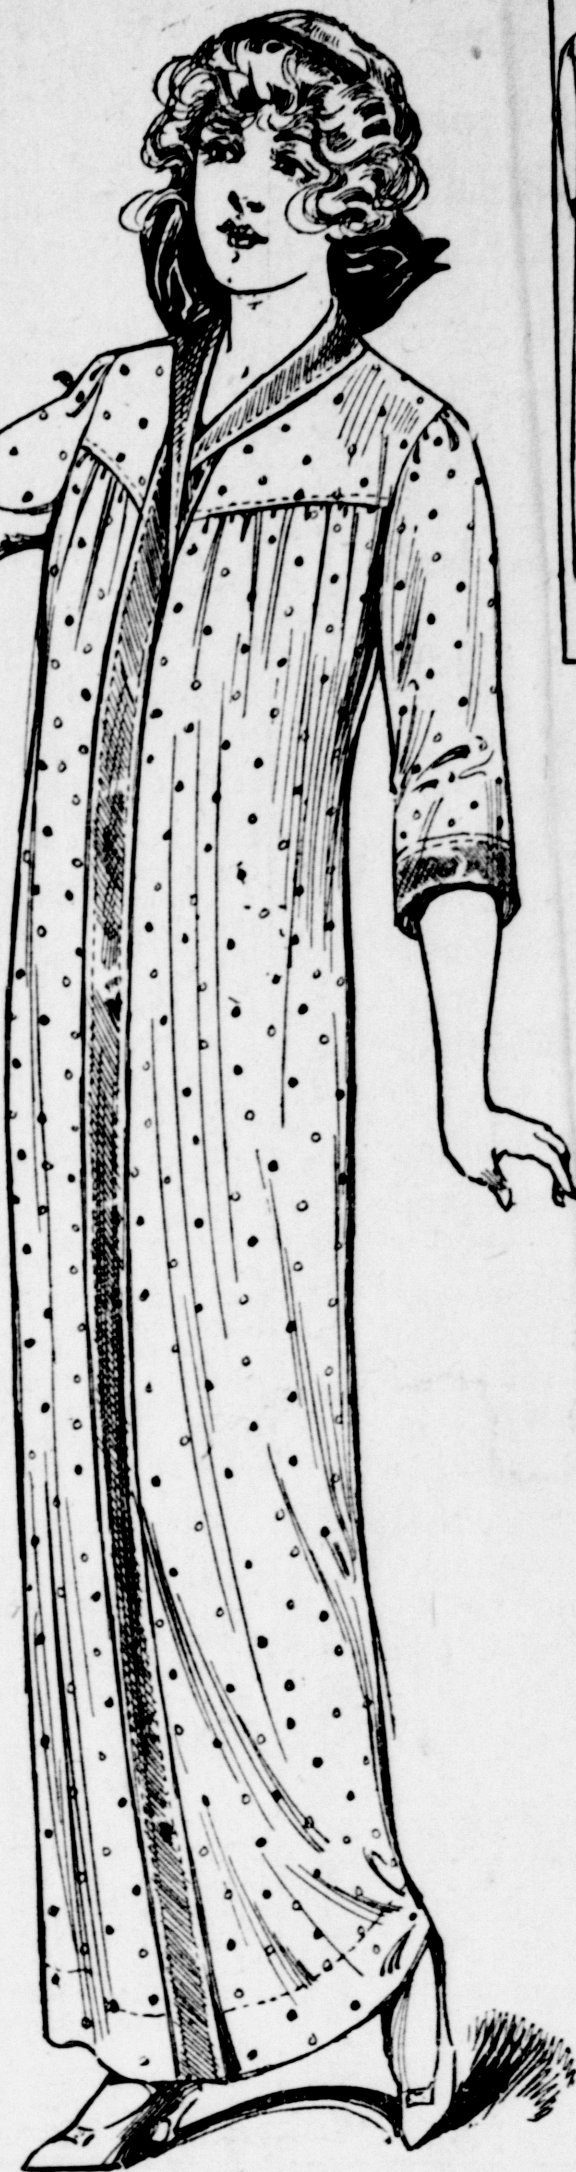

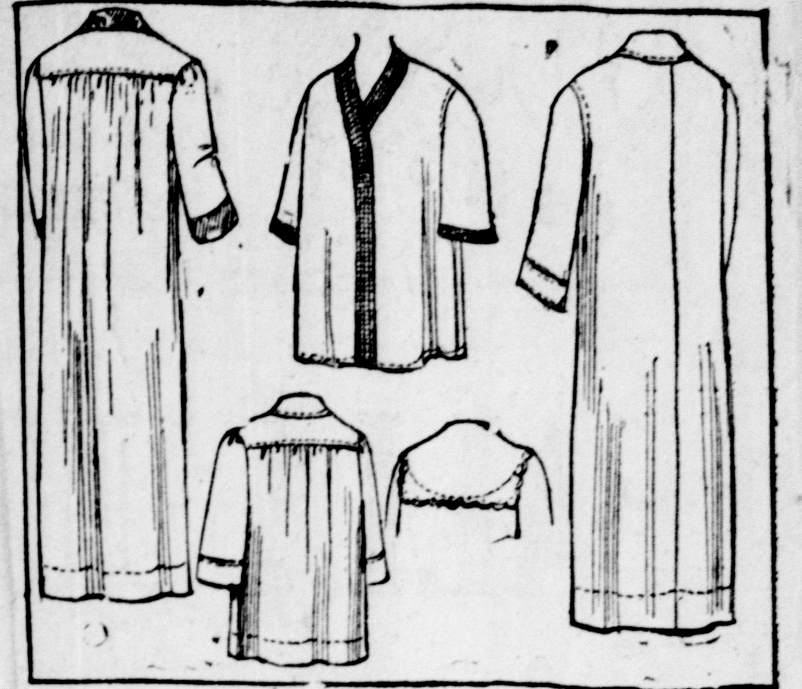

In a heart-breaking ninth inning rally the All Stars beat the Badgers by the score of 5 to 4, thus breaking the winning streak of the Badgers and giving them their first defeat of the season. The Badgers were in the lead at the beginning of the ninth but the Stars by hard sluging and errors on the part of the Badgers managed to get the lead. The Badgers could do nothing in their half and so ended a great game.

The Young Athletes, formerly the Rams were swamped by the Phenoms to the tune of 15 to 2.

TODAY GETAWAY DAY

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 1.—Today was "getaway" day at the University of Wisconsin. The session of the summer school will close today and before Sunday the 2,000 pupils will have gone to their homes. The summer law school will continue until August 10, but the final examinations in the other courses will be completed Friday morning.

SIMPLE NEGLIGEE

MAY MANTON

Fashion Notes

MID-SUMMER to the average woman represents the time of holiday making and freedom from anxiety on the score of clothes but in New York designers and tailors are busy planning for the coming season and there are straws flying about that are indicative of what is to come and they possess certain interest in spite of the fact that they do not represent any immediate need. There is so much discussion on the subject of the narrow skirt that it is hardly too soon to say that it promises to extend its vogue throughout the coming season though with such variations and modifications as relieve its severity and less fortunate points. Drapery is to make a feature, it is asserted, and it is really marvelous to note what drapery can be effected without destroying the general narrow effect and without cutting the material. A really important feature of the new models as they are being shown is to be found in the skirts and wraps that are made of a single strip of cloth or other fabric of the fifty-two or fifty-four inch width. Designers and makers appear to have learned many lessons in this direction within the past few months and not a few of the skirts that are exploited seem hardly possible without seams yet in reality are so made, folds, plaits and occasional darts accomplishing all that is needful. A great deal of the fullness is arranged between the hips and the knees and it is claimed that such treatment allows ample room both for sitting and walking without the necessity for width at the lower edge. In any event, the effects are, many of them, graceful and attractive and the folds taken by the beautiful soft fabrics unquestionably relieve the narrow skirt of its greatest objections.

Simple kimonos made with the sleeves and body portion in one, in true Japanese style, always are favorites. This one can be made just as illustrated or with slightly longer sleeves gathered into bands and it can be cut off to sacque length, with the result that it is adapted to many needs. Almost numberless materials are used for kimonos in these days but nothing is prettier than the Japanese cotton crepe illustrated. It is trimmed with silk bands and it is in every way attractive as well as practical. Among pretty novelties must be mentioned extremely light weight flannel woven in flowered effects and genuine kimono silks, but simpler materials such as cashmere, crepe and the like, are in every way appropriate. Here is a negligee that is eminently attractive, yet so simple that any girl can make one. The neck edge is finished with big collar and revers that are exceedingly smart and the sleeves can be gathered at their lower edges and finished with prettily shaggy cuffs, or left loose as like I.

THE new wraps, even those designed for late summer, give evidence of the same idea. A charming cape especially suited to the younger contingent gives the effect of a burnousehood at the back and falls about the figure in beautiful folds and it consists only of one strip of soft broadcloth manipulated by an artist in matters of designing. Cords and tassels always seem the natural accompaniment of drapery and are generously used upon wraps, frequently as finish for the draped skirts.

AT the moment, however, the simple suits that are most in demand are largely made with plain skirts or skirts that show only slight drapery and, for the resorts and places of the kind, white skirts, either cloth, serge or silk are pronounced favorites. Howbeit there is almost always some little touch of bright color to be found in the up-to-date costume of summer. A very new model which has just been received from across the sea might easily be produced in one of the fashionable materials, moiré or ribbed silk, serge or light weight cloth. The skirt is quite plain with a panel at the front that is edged with black. The coat is in the severely tailored style but extends below the hips with a belt and through the opening between the collar and hips and is finished with a belt and the collar and revers are open to reveal the bodice beneath. The sleeves are long and close-fitting and all the edges of the coat and the edges of the belt are piped with black. The bodice is distinctly novel. It consists of a rather wide fitted girdle that extends a little below and well above the waist line and that is made of the material of the suit piped with black and held with small black buttons and button-holes but above the girdle it is soft and full and made entirely of corn yellow crepe de chine with a rolling collar of the same while the little neck-tie of combined shades of blue and violet, the three colors uniting to give a very attractive result.

WHITE is always a favorite for warm weather and this season it meets one at every turn, more often with a touch of bright color than without, but frequently showing this touch handled very delicately and with great discretion. Blouses of white net are pronounced favorites and they are fascinatingly cool in effect as well as in fact. Very new ones are made in the kimono style that is charming in the thin material and with sleeves that extend a little below the elbows where they are met by deep fitted cuffs. These cuffs are finished at the upper and lower edges with plaited frills of the net that is dainty in the extreme. There is the almost inevitable V-shaped opening at the neck but the finish consists of a slightly crushed collar at the back with softly draped revers extending to the waist line at the front and both the collar and the revers are finished with cut hem-stitching. It is claimed that these waists of white net will continue their vogue throughout the coming season.

Pretty Models for Dainty Underwear

COMBINATION undergarments are almost universal just now for nothing else is so completely satisfactory beneath fashionable gowns. In this illustration, is shown one princess garment that serves the purpose of both corset cover and petticoat and one semi-princess that combines corset cover and four gored petticoat. The princess garment takes perfectly straight, narrow lines and can be closed at either the front or the back and made with round or square neck while the lower edge can be finished in any way that may be liked. All the dainty lawns and batistes and the cotton cretonnes that are so much liked for underwear are pretty and the trimming can be varied to suit the individual taste. Lace and embroidery are standbys but many girls like hand embroidery and it is unquestionably dainty.

THIS is a summer of pretty feminine accessories. Sashes play a conspicuous part and are really very beautiful. Flowered ribbons and some of the very new, handsome ones with velvet brocaded flowers upon a silk background are really superb on the white gowns, and happily are more often seen than the more brilliant colors to be found in the Bulgarian and Cubist designs. For slender figures, the Bayardere style wound gracefully around the hips as well as the waist is pretty and is much liked but all such novelties should be handled with care. When they are becoming they are charming but when the figure does not admit of the treatment, the effect can mean only disaster. Clever girls tie the sashes just where they are becoming, at the side, or at the back or at the front and either in the mousmee or Japanese bow or in upstanding loops as suits the peculiar need. Velvet ribbons are greatly used too and often black velvet gives a smart finish not to be obtained by any other means. Muslin dresses with sashes and quaint little coats worn thereafter are accompanied by broad Leghorn hats flower-trimmed, and such costumes are really delightful for garden parties, afternoon drives and occasions of the kind. The daytime dances have been carried into the summer with the result that a great many costumes adapted to dancing yet simple enough for daytime wear are in demand. For their making, lace flouncings are much liked and very charming, dainty costumes are evolved that seem eminently well suited to just such use. A pretty one completed today and designed for a trip to the mountains, is made entirely of shadow lace flouncing over a slip of museline. The skirt consists of three flounces, each overlapping the other, and beneath the scalloped edges are arranged bands of black tulle. The bodice is perfectly plain in kimono style, two widths of the flouncing being used and joined at the front where there is set a row of little buttons. The finished edges form the sleeves and terminate halfway to the elbows and beneath their edges is arranged lace of narrow width, giving slightly additional length. The neck is half low and round completed by a plaiting of narrow lace and, accompanying the costume, there are several sashes, one of flowered and the others of plain ribbons in different colors. The touch of black finishing the edges is somewhat important, for black in some such way is used upon a great many of the smartest gowns. It accentuates the color effect, it seems to enhance and act as a foil for everything else and in its latest development it is seen in tulle. Pretty little bows are much used, of the black tulle with glittering jeweled slides, as finish for the round collars on simple costumes and frequently one sees velvet or folded tulle used as a dog collar with just a simple slide as fastening, for black in bits is kind to us all and black in one of these ways often gives the smart touch that means distinction. It has been truly said that the fashionable woman of the summer is copying the butterfly in many ways and the effect is mainly achieved by the extensive use of the tulle. It appears in bows, it appears in effective trimming for hats, it appears in sashes and its very latest form is the bow referred to above with the loops in real butterfly outline and the centers when the purse allows of diamonds, when economy is to be considered of rhinestones. Sashes are tied in butterfly bows that frequently give the effect of a butterfly with spread wings and some of the newest corsage effects take the form of a butterfly bow of tulle that is arranged one color over the other to give not the form alone but something of the color effect as well.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The stock market opened quiet and higher.

11 a. m.—The market was entirely professional during the first hour and what little trading occurred was confined to very few issues. There was some pressure on Canadian Pacific and it was thought that the technical position of this stock was not good. A sharp advance in the price of corn to the highest figures of the season was an unfavorable factor from the stock market point of view. While there has been considerable damage in some sections it was the prevailing opinion that the corn crop will be of large proportions.

Noon.—The market was dull.
2 p. m.—The market was heavy in the early afternoon.
The stock market closed dull.

Chicago Livestock

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The entire grain list showed up piling strength today with corn heading the advance and pulling wheat and oats to new high figures for the week.
Excited buying continued in the corn pit despite seasonable temperatures. No rain was reported in any of the drought afflicted states and after each month had opened with a jump of 1/2c, there were further advances of 1/4c for September and 1/4c for December in the foreign session.
In spite of low cables wheat moved sharply upward and at noon September was 1 1/4c above last night's close and December 3/4c above the same figures. The bulls predicted light receipts next week as a reason for boosting the market.
Oats started 1/2c to 3/4c higher. Trade was of moderate volume and after the strong opening, prices made further advance of 3/4c to 1c because of the upward turn of corn.
A strong hog market gave proviern, $4.10 to $5.25; lambs, $5.50 to $7.20; western, $6.00 to $7.25.

Better Let the Women Tat.
Tattooing is the least expensive sort of fancy work a woman can do. Many girls admit that they could crochet three balls of cotton while they are tattooing one. Men, it will be easier on your pocketbooks if you let this harmless task go blithely on, for those gay sofa cushions are soon done and then thread and linen must be bought for a new one. For a woman's fingers must be employed.—Kansas Industrialist.

Watching The Scoreboard

Rollie Zeider and his bunion are still in St. Louis, but they have not been forgotten. It has been observed that Managers Chance and Callahan do not speak when they pass. The Yankees also evened up by taking another game from the White Sox. Caldwell allowed but four hits.

The Athletics had a little shaved off their lead for the pennant when the St. Louis Browns beat Plank, while Cleveland was asking a double header from Boston.

The Naps knocked Bedient out of the box in the first game and Moseley and Foster in the second. Olson and Laiole hit safely four times in the two games. Jackson did not get a hit in either game.

Joe Boehling probably appreciates the attention, but the fans with the brass band from Richmond might have used better judgment in picking a day to honor him. Boehling lost his second game of the season. Detroit got to him for eleven hits.

If Marquard is not charged with losing yesterday's game to the Cubs he at least will not escape without a dark spot in his record. The Cubs handled him with little consideration. The score was tied when Fromme relieved Rube and the winning run was put over off the ex-Red.

The Phillies cut the Giants lead to eight and one-half games when they downed the Cincinnati Reds. Mordecai Brown was hammered for 14 hits in seven innings. Paskert hit for two singles and a triple and Lobert for two singles and a double.

Umpire O'Day set a record for wholesale chasing of players in St. Louis when he sent six Boston men from the bench to the clubhouse in a body. As the other part of the entertainment Lord and Maranville played havoc with St. Louis pitchers. Both connected for home runs and Lord drew three singles and Maranville one.

Small Bby Killed by Fowl.
A fowl killed a two-year-old child at St. Brieux, France, a few days ago. The little fellow was playing outside his parents' house when a large Cochon China cock attempted to take a piece of bread from his hand. The child and the cock struggled for the bread, and the cock attacked the child and hurt him so badly that he died shortly after.

Soured on Afternoon Teas.
"Then you don't like these afternoon teas?" "Too rough on the nerves. Here's the situation: I gotta hold a sandwich in my mouth, a plate of cake in one hand, a cup of tea in the other, and nothing to do anything on but a grand piano."

Quick Composition.
Bishop Heber, while on a visit to his father-in-law, Dean Staley, wrote "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," in fifteen minutes, making only one correction, the change of "sage" for "heathens" in the second verse.
